

The FCC proposal on telephone privacy is not as strong as the Indiana law already in place. Unsolicited telephone calls are a very serious problem and I do not want the Indiana law diluted. Deceptive marketing calls from our credit card issuers used to be a major headache before the Indiana do-not-call law came into effect.